EVERY well informed Missourian knows that a powerful and wide spread projudice exists everywhere outside of Missours against this State. This has done the state untold injury. A million doliers expended by the people of Missouri in advertising the varied resources of this grand commonwealt's would not do one half as much to remove this reputation existing to the detriment of the state, as would the election of Maj. Warner as Missouri's next Governor. We have heard enough expression of sentiment to convince us that a great many voters, who love the welfare of this grand old state more than the blind following of party leaders, will not vote for Warner and Missouri's best interests.
